Are you planning to work while studying in the Netherlands?

Under the Dutch Health Care Insurance Act (Zvw), every Dutch National or (foreign) person with an employee status is legally required to have a Dutch Basic Healthcare Insurance. This also applies to international students with a part-time job, both European and non-European. An EHIC is not valid if you have a (part-time) job in the Netherlands.

When is a Dutch Basic Healthcare Insurance mandatory?

- When you have a part-time job
- When you have an internship and earn more than the Dutch minimum wage:

Fine

Not complying to this Dutch law means you will be fined by the CAK. Fines can run up to as much as EUR 400,-.

Not sure which insurance?

If you're not sure which insurance applies to your specific situation, it is important to contact the SVB for an assessment www.svb.nl/en/the-wlz-scheme.

Additional insurance during your stay in the Netherlands

The Aon Dutch Basic Healthcare Insurance covers medical costs only. Since you are temporary living in the Netherlands we recommend you take out additional insurance. On top of your Aon Dutch Basic Healthcare Insurance you can upgrade with the following package:

Aon Start+ insurance
